Durham county was formed by act ratified 28th February, 1881, from parts of Mangum, Little River, and Patterson townships of Orange county, and Cedar Fork township of Wake county. It took its name from the town of Durham, to which Messrs. W. T. Blackwell & Co. have given a world-wide reputation through their brand of Tobacco of same name. It occupies a central position in the State; is bounded on the north by Person, on the south by Wake and Chatham, on the east by Granville and Wake, and on the west by Orange. It has an area of 242½ square miles (155,200 acres) and the land has an average assessed value of $8.55 per acre.

DURHAM, the county seat, is on the Carolina Division, Piedmont Air Line, 26 miles southwest of Raleigh, and has a population of 2,041.
